Research Interests

- Formal Methods Algebraic Graph Transformations, Models for Concurrency, Rewriting Systems
General Mathematics Category Theory, Algebraic Topology, Mathematical Logic

Experiences

- Algebraic Theories I established a syntactic framework for the study of algebraic structures on fuzzy sets and proved a monadicity results for the associated categories of models.
Adhesive Categories and Algebraic Graph Transformations I identified criteria to establish adhesivity properties for a wide range of categories employed in the Double Pushout (DPO) approach to graph rewriting.
I obtained results concerning the relationship between various forms of adhesivity and the categorical properties of the underlying category. Building on these results, I proved an embedding result into toposes.
Concurrency I proved various results regarding sequential independence in left-linear rewriting systems, where rules are allowed to "merge" parts of the input. These are steps toward resolving the open problem of characterizing the causality of derivations within such systems, with the ultimate goal of developing a concurrent semantics.
Programming Languages Python, Haskell and Bash.
